DE MORNY WAS IN BRUSSELS.

LONDON, April 29.—The man who was wounded in the duel with Mr. Harry Vane Milbank, near Ostend last night, was not the Duke de Morncy, but a Frenchman, who is still unidentified. The reason for supposing that he was the Duke was because he and Mr. Milbank had a violent quarrel at Brussels on Tuesday, and Mr. Milbank telegraphed to a friend that he would fight De Morncy at the earliest opportunity.

MILBANK AND THE POLICE.

His reason for quarrelling with a stranger has not yet been fully given. Mr. Milbank telegraphed this evening from Brussels that he would be here to-morrow. He seems to be able to remain in Belgium in defiance of the police and the laws. This is probably due to the fact that he enjoys the friendship of the Minister of Justice, who last week promised Mr. Milbank and him as much help as it was possible to give in case any serious results followed the De Morncy duel.

A BRUSSELS PAPER SAYS DE MORNY DID NOT FIGHT.

BRUSSELS, April 30.—Many inquiries have been made to ascertain if possible who it was that fought the duel with the Englishman, Mr. Harry Vane Milbank. The Independence to-day says that it has investigated the affair and learned enough to be able to state that the Duke de Morncy had nothing to do with the duel. It adds that though the name of Mr. Milbank's opponent has not yet been made public there is every reason to believe that the fight grew out of a personal quarrel, in which no one but Milbank and the other man were concerned.

A Monster Landslide Threatens Immense Damage in the Tyrol.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

VIENNA, April 30.—In Pustertal, a district in the eastern part of the Tyrol, heavy snows have fallen and now almost incessant rains are causing the snow to melt.

The extraordinary quantity of water has percolated through the earth covering the side of one of the mountains, causing a landslide that threatens the most serious consequences.

The whole side of the mountain seems to be moving. Huge boulders are falling and the debris is damming the River Isère. An overflow, which will do immense damage, is threatened.

POINTERS ON THE RACES.

The Half-Mile Dash the Feature at the Hilltop To-Day.

Mud Horses Will Have Their Own Way at Washington.

Some excellent racing may be seen at Hilltop to-day. The track will be in good condition, but a little sticky on the inner rail. The cold weather and high winds will dry it out very quickly. The best race on the card is the half-mile dash for two-year-olds. In it are entered Ford, Nick, Rocket, Ida, Colt, Handover and Lorraine colts. They are the pick of the two-year-olds now at the track. The race at a mile and a half looks interesting, and the hurdle race may furnish a close contest between Bassanio and St. Luke. The selections are as follows:
